

John of God Crystal Light Healing Bed

Coming to Las Vegas

by Gabrielle Wyant

Renee Adcock could not have imagined the amazing ways her life was about to change when in 2012, she walked into a little metaphysical store and was offered an opportunity to enjoy the John of God Crystal Light Healing Bed. As she lay under the pulsing lights and images came into focus, she immediately realized the crystal lights were manifesting her own personal healing, and she decided she wanted to introduce this to others.

As a young girl, Adcock felt “different” because she had what she can now define as the gifts of aura viewing, insight and intuition. Today, she is a spiritual counselor, studying for a master’s degree in divinity. Adcock is a natural healer, skilled in essential oil therapies, and travels across the country offering sessions on the Crystal Light Healing Bed.

The beds are only allowed to be purchased by people that have been approved by the famous healer, Joao Teixeira de Faria, John of God (JohnOfGod.com). “I asked for and received permission, I’m blessed to share this experience with my life companion Barry Lawton, Jr.,” says Adcock.

Adcock and Lawton travel from town to town, as John of God is said to have done, hoping to heal multitudes of people. Of the bed, Adcock states, “I have set my intention to make it available to as many people as I can. I want to share its healing properties with all who are called to the experience.” Adcock says her life revolves around her travels, where she offers sessions and provides spiritual guidance to hundreds of people.

The Crystal Light Healing Bed

The concept of the bed, also called crystal bath therapy, is said to have been channeled to John of God, who then had it developed for practical use and incorporated it as an important healing modality. “John of God oversees the making of each and every bed,” says Adcock.

The device has seven extremely clear and highly polished Vogel cut quartz crystals suspended approximately 12 inches above the client lying on a massage table. Each crystal is aligned above one of the seven human energy centers, or chakras. Colored lights, chosen to match the frequency of chakra colors, radiate light and energy through the crystals to each respective chakra and pulse on and off in specific rhythms to cleanse, balance and align the energies. The individual receiving the session rests face up with eyes closed, bathing in the energy.

The crystals for the beds were mined in the small town of Garimbo de Ouro, in Brazil, where gold and precious stones, quartz crystals and amethyst lie beneath the surface of most of that area, resulting in what is reportedly a profound energy emanating from the land. According to John of God, the crystals making up the bed were, “born in beds of water, deep beneath the earth.” They are extracted from the earth and personally selected and guaranteed by John of God. Each of the seven crystals comes from a single stone and is carefully polished to exacting standards.

An understanding of crystal therapy was developed by IBM researcher Marcel Vogel, who spent his lifetime investigating quartz crystals. He invented microfiber technologies that send information through the vibrations of light and designed experiments demonstrating the power of crystals to affect physical processes.

Crystals have some of the most orderly molecular structures found in nature. Vogel discovered that light passing through a crystal will resonate with the structured patterns of the crystal. One theory for the health-giving effects of crystal therapy is that the well-organized vibration resonating from the crystals helps to organize the water in our tissues and cells.

Many believe that the crystal healing light beds are prescribed by the Entities (healing spirit guides) of John of God’s healing center, Casa De Dom Inacio. According to Adcock, “The Healing Spirit Entities of the Casa are able to use this device as a portal so that they may more easily make their presence felt to those who seek their help in healing.”

What People Might Experience During a Session

According to Adcock, when people visit the crystal bed, they have very personal experiences. Often, their experiences exceed expectations. Many people that have experienced the lights also feel themselves move into an altered state during a session. Many say they feel the sensation of being “worked on” by spirits and some experience a feeling of great atonement to spirit. Individual experiences can range from deeply relaxing to energizing or in some cases, profoundly moving.

While lying on a massage table, the client relaxes to peaceful music and the combination of crystals and color therapy opens and balances the chakras while clearing blocks in the energy field. “I have seen clients have healings from a variety of issues, but everyone’s experience is so different; from total relaxation to healing of physical problems. I have seen visions and had physical problems disappear completely,” says Adcock.

The Crystal Bed is a powerful, life-changing experience for most people. Many come for the beautiful feeling of peace, relaxation and spiritual expansion. Those that experience the bed often feel like their heart has opened and they know a deep sense of love and peace. This can result in any type of healing. Many people feel a great release from grief or loss. Adcock says, “I believe anything that does not support us can be cleared away to result in health, happiness, finding our true purpose and a closer connection to God.”

Adcock loves working with people as they evolve in their consciousness as a result of their session.
